

Reminder

Call for papers

The Société de philosophie des sciences (SPS) is holding its 7th biennial meeting in Nantes (France) on July 4-6, 2018. The main theme is Theories and data in the era of big data, but any topic in philosophy of science is welcome.

NEW DEADLINE for submission: February 1st 2018

Submission via web-site: <https://congressps.sciencesconf.org/resource/page/id/1>

Submission of individual papers:

- In English or in French
- Abstract: 1000 words
- About the theme of the meeting – Theories and data in the era of big data – or any other topic in philosophy of science.

Symposium (3 people):

- In English or in French
- 2000 words for the session as a whole (~500 words for a general introduction and ~500 words per paper)
- About the theme of the meeting – Theories and data in the era of big data – or any other topic in philosophy of science.

Notification of acceptance: February 15th, 2018

Registration starting from February 16th, 2018

For any inquiry, please contact Karine Lejeune (karine.lejeune@univ-nantes.fr).

Plenary invited speakers:

Serge Abiteboul (INRIA, ENS Paris)

Les sciences questionnées par le numérique

Anouk Barberousse (Paris IV, Sorbonne)

Les bases de données de la biodiversité

Sonia Desmoulin-Canselier (DCS, CNRS, Université de Nantes)
L'évaluation à l'ère de la médecine des données

Sabina Leonelli (Egenis, Exeter University)
Research in the age of big and open data

Marco Panza (IHPST, CNRS, Université Paris 1)
Understanding science without understanding

Scientific Committee and description of the theme: https:// congressps.sciencesconf.org/resource/page/id/1

--

Francesca Merlin, for the Société de philosophie des sciences